TEAM ROPING FUTURITY CRITERIA

Head Horse Criteria

Blanket Clause:

In all criteria to follow, any of the following disobediences will be penalized at judge(s) discretion. Bucking, kicking, rearing, swishing tail, shaking head, opening mouth, or loss of control.

Approach and Entry to box

Horse should ride quietly and obediently directly into the box, remaining relaxed as the barrier is strung. Horse should be willing to turn either direction with no resistance, keeping all four feet on the ground. Horse should back calmly into the corner and be prepared for the run.

Attitude in box

Horse should stand quietly and relaxed, score with all four feet on the ground and leave smoothly and flat off of roper's hand. Horse must run through the barrier with no hesitation. A one-point deduction from both judges for a broken barrier will be assessed.

Run and Rate

Horse should gather the steer up, reacting to the situation thus allowing the roper an opportunity to catch. Once caught the horse must rate and widen to handle the steer while maintaining proper frame.

Set and Handle

Horse should remain arced up as he and rider tow the steer straight across the arena maintaining good speed and control of the steer.

Face

Horse should face on the forehand when asked. Then continue to back up and draw slack out of the rope with all four feet on the ground.

Settle

Horse should now recognize that the run is complete and stand calmly as the steer goes to the catch pen. The horse must walk out of the arena relaxed.

Sharpness of Run

This is simply to reward the horse for the completion of a timely, sharp run. This is where the horse allows the roper to take advantage of a good opportunity or handles a bad situation well.

Heel Horse Criteria

Blanket Clause:

In all criteria to follow, any of the following disobediences will be penalized at judge(s) discretion. Bucking, kicking, rearing, swishing tail, shaking head, opening mouth, or loss of control.

Approach to box

Horse should quietly and obediently walk directly into the box turning either direction, without any signs of resistance.

Attitude in box

Horse should be willing to back or stand when asked. Horse should be alert and acknowledge the steer. Not lifting front feet off the ground or resisting positioning. Horse must leave off of heeler's hand.

Break and Run

Horse must break flat and smooth, haze steer as necessary. Horse must read the steer and adjust speed and position depending on the steer's pattern.

Corner Entry

Horse should back off from hazing position to enter corner. It should turn in as steer turns, keeping their shoulders elevated and continue to maintain proper frame and distance from steer.

Tracking and Rate

Horse should allow the heeler to have a good look at the steer's feet by staying off of the left hip. It should not anticipate the stop and not crowd the heeler's delivery. The horse should rate off and prepare to stop as the heeler delivers, while staying square to the steer.

Stop and Back

Horse should come to a complete stop as the heeler dallies and await the headers face. Horse should stop on the hindquarters, remaining square to steer and back up if necessary.

Settle

Horse should stand quietly and relaxed recognizing the end of the run. Horse should walk out of the arena relaxed.

Sharpness of Run

This is simply to reward the horse for the completion of a timely, sharp run. This is where the horse allows the roper to take advantage of a good opportunity or handles a bad situation well.
